Deferred Taxation

The charge for taxation takes into account taxation deferred as a result of timing differences between the treatment of certain items for taxation and accounting purposes. In general, deferred taxation is recognised in respect of all timing difference that have originated but not reversed at the balance sheet date. However, deferred tax assets are recognised only to the extent that the directors consider that it is more likely than not that they will be recovered against the reversal of deferred tax liabilities or other future taxable profits.

Deferred taxation is measured on a non-discounted basis at the average tax rates that would apply when the timing differences are expected to reverse, based on tax rates and laws that have been enacted by the balance sheet date.

Stocks

Stock has been valued by the directors at the lower of cost or net realisable value and this basis has been consistently applied. The stocks are consumables and the cost is determined by applying the weighted average purchase price.

The provision for deferred taxation is made up of accelerated capital allowances.

The company has applied the FRSSSE (effective June 2002) for the first time in these financial statements. As a result, the accounting policy for deferred taxation has been changed and full provision has been made for timing differences arising from accelerated capital allowances, as opposed to the partial provision basis previously used. The application of the new policy has not resulted in any material change to figures reported in previous financial statements and therefore no prior year adjustment has been made. The effect of the change in policy on the current years profit is not material.
